To Bruce D. Hales,

26th August 2019,

Dear Bruce,

I still await your response to matters mentioned in my previous letters to you. For example, the Diale situation is getting dire. See further appeal attached. Could you please advise whether or not you are going to help them?

I appeal to you that despite inevitable disruption, good would come from exposing past and present injustices to the light. Although you instituted 'The Review' failed to acknowledge most of the horrendous array of unrighteousness assembly judgments, not only in the Sydney area, but across the whole 'universal position', and carefully avoided accountability. The causes remain unaddressed. So let's now face up to these matters so that we can all be winners. There is so much of value at stake. Why excuse injustices under the shelter of "protecting the position"?

My request is that the PBCC thoroughly investigates and exposes inappropriate and unscriptural applications of separation right back to 1959 in order to stop the ensuing detriment and harm to individuals.

For example, Rob Thorncroft's treatment around 1995 may need reviewing. I believe that his concerns regarding your boy's activities were genuine.

Yours patiently,

Lance J. Christie
